Coyote and Police Dog
Pyrrhoea and Prejudice
Flightless Cormorants
Modern Cave Dwellers

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

HODGK, CALIF., JAN. 8.—Near this ranch house a big coyote hangs by his hind feet waiting to be skinned. Those that let children play with police dogs should see this coyote. Its size, head, shape and color, those of a police dog, also its disposition.

Before a bullet between the eyes ended his career, the trapped coyote barked and snapped in police dog fashion.
The close resemblance between the two branches of the wolf family is amazing.

A doctor of Manhattan,
Kansas, believes he has found a cure for pyrrhoea, Mr. Gendrich of Chicago thinks he also knows a cure. A real cure of

S. S. STEAL RISING TO HALF-MILLION

SECRET INDICTMENT VOTED IN HUGE THEFT; WOMAN IS ARRAIGNED

The return of a number of secret indictments in the Eastern Steamship Company larceny by the Suffolk grand jury and a report that the total amount taken will reach more than $500,000 were the high lights in the case today.

The fact that indictments had been handed down was made known by District Attorney William J. Foley when Mrs. Rae

'We,' Lindy's Story; Start It Today

The Boston Evening American begins today the publication of one of the most intensely human documents of the year. It is Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's own story of his life.

America's hero of the air—when thousands of Bostonians and New Englanders acclaimed during his recent visit to this section—reveals not only many hitherto unpublished facts about his history-making flight across the Atlantic, but gives many important and interesting views on the future of aviation. It is a story no one can afford to miss.

CHAPTER I

I WAS born in Detroit, Mich., on February 4, 1902. My father was practicing law in Little Falls, Minn., at the time. When I was less than two months old my parents took me to their farm, on the western bank of the Mississippi River, two miles south of Little Falls.

My father, Charles A. Lindbergh, was born in Stockholm.

Tax Revision Bill Will Be Held Up Until March 15

Washington, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—
A prediction that the $100,000, 000 tax revision bill would be suspended until after March 15, when first tax returns of the year are due, was made today by Chairman Nathan of the Senate Finance Committee.
Assimilation leaders today declared that after March 15 it will be possible to show the figures of the condition of the country's finances and to determine just how far tax reduction should go. The figure of $250,000,000 given by the House is held by Secretary Mellon to be too high.

'BURY ME IN PRETTY CLOTHES,' SAYS RUTH, PREPARING TO DIE

Sing Sing Prison, Jan. 8.—Only in death can Ruth Brown Snyder throw off the harsh cotton garb of the prison and return to the soft, filmy things in which she once attired the body that brought her and Harry Judd Gray to felon's deaths.
"Bring me my things,"—an exquisite dress and a silk nightgown. "I shall wear them today, taking leave of my own funeral while my mother, pallid of face and bent of body, wept softly and closed her eyes."

U. S. ENGINEER KILLS 4 MEXICANS AND ESCAPES

Mexico City, Jan. 8 (A.P.).— A man whose home is in Los Angeles, has escaped from the hands of men who had been holding him prisoner for years since he was kidnaped December 17.
Further, made desperate when he overheard the chairman of the board say he would be killed on Tuesday unless a ransom of $100,000 was paid, attacked his guards Sunday night, overpowered, and fled to the United States.

FIRE PANIC AT FUNERAL QUELLED BY 25 PRIESTS

North Andover, Jan. 8.—A fire started by fire in a church caused to narrowly with the explosion of a funeral service for the late George W. Halsey, pastor of St.
Michael's, now called by St. Don-nic Halsey, a choir of 25 priests.
As mourning drapery on the altar burst into flames (and in sudden, a cry of "Fire" went up in the choir of the church and soon spread for the exit.

Despite the danger, Walter Lambert of South Boston, the choir leader, called on the choir for a prayer in disregard of the order of the ceremony. Father Lock, leader of the choir, called for order among the choir.

FEAR BILL TO ABOLISH DEATH PENALTY WON'T SAVE RUTH SNYDER

WARDEN COMPLETING PLANS FOR EXECUTION THURSDAY

"I want to be buried in something pretty and soft and clean," Ruth said Mrs. Brown. "The prison men are so hard and rough and so uncomfortable. My skin has been scratched until it's rough and sore. I want to have my own thing when I am buried."

Mrs. Brown, whose husband's death she has been mourning since the day she was told that he was dead, said that she would like to see Ruth Snyder today. From the attending physician's office, to Governor Smith's chambers failed to make her own way.

Warden Laves was officially taking the day and night the woman would die, while Governor Smith would make public his decision on her commutation prayer, she slept soundly in her cell until long after a week.

GIRL RISKS LIFE TO RESCUE 15 FROM FIRE

Crawling on hands and knees through flame and smoke, a girl risked her life to give an alarm over the telephone. As fire threatened to destroy the three-story dwelling at No. 42 Homes avenue, Dorchester, and drove 15 persons to the street clad in nightclothes, early today.

Miss Veronica McCormack, 23, living with her parents, her sister and brother on the top floor, sounded the alarm after discovering the fire when she awoke, choking with smoke. After telephoning she raced through the house, arousing the rest of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCormack, her parents, James, Jr., 30, and Helen, 26, raced to the first and second floors giving the alarm to Mr. and Mrs. Charles (Cushman), Alfred, 15, Elsie, 20, Claire, 19, and Charles, 17, occupants of the second floor, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodale, William, 12, and Doris Goodale, 22, on the first floor. Soon afterward Veronica McCormack staggered through the hallway to the street.

The blaze started from a defective fireplace and worked through a flue, mushrooming out in the first and second floors.

When apparatus arrived the top floor was a mass of flames causing concern to neighbors, who prepared to leave their homes.

After a battle of several hours the flames were checked. Damage was estimated at $2,000. The house is owned by Peter McCreora of Walnut avenue, Roxbury.

All the occupants, chilled by the rain and morning air, were taken into the homes of neighbors, where hot coffee was prepared. Special attention was given Miss McCormack, who seemed on the verge of collapse from her experience.

SLAIN AUTOMOBILE THIEF SUSPECT IS IDENTIFIED

POLICE BELIEVE SECOND MAN WAS SHOT

The alleged automobile thief shot to death by a Brookline policeman after being caught tampering with a machine, was identified today as Frederick Joseph Ryle, eighteen of Auburn street, Charlestown.

The identification was made at the Northern Mortuary by the victim's half brother, John Ryle of Frothingham avenue, Charlestown.

Chief Inspector Armstrong made known that Ryle was under bail from Brookline court, charged with the larceny of a $5,000 automobile, the property of Irving Warshaw of No. 18 Winthrop road, Brookline.

The machine was recovered in Reading following a collision, in which one of its two occupants sustained a fatal skull fracture. Ryle was obtained for Ryle's arrest. He pleaded not guilty on arraignment, and was to have appeared Friday for a hearing.

The wounded man was found in Commonwealth avenue gasping his life away. He lay beside a parked automobile and was taken to the Commonwealth hospital by passers-by and died a short time later.

SEVERAL SHOTS FIRED.

According to police, Patrolman Nicholas J. Skalla of Brookline was informed by telephone that a man was apparently trying to steal an automobile in Freeman street, Brookline. Skalla hurried to the scene and says he saw a young man trying to open the door of a parked sedan.

The youth ran and Skalla gave chase, claiming he fired when the fugitive refused to halt. The policeman said his quarry called out to two other men waiting in an automobile which drew up beside him and he leaped to the running board.

Skalla fired several shots at the speeding car which got away.

Some time later Ryle was discovered by Arnold Bernstein, proprietor of the La Salle Hotel, Warren street, Samuel Barnet, New Woodliffe street, Roxbury, and Miss Mildred Reed of Ivy street, Back Bay, who were walking along Commonwealth avenue.

WOUNDED ANOTHER?

As they stopped at the crumpled figure lying in the street, Ryle said:

"I'm shot. Get me to a hospital. A cop shot me."

The police are seeking a second man, who it is believed was also wounded by Skalla, and who is thought to have abandoned his companion and the stolen machine when he found Ryle's condition was serious.

WINS HER FREEDOM

MRS. DORIS E. DE GANNE

Say Revere Girl Employes

Framingham wife, who was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty, charged her husband, Joseph DeGanne of Holliston, beat her, spent his time gambling and finally ordered her from home.

FRAMINGHAM WIVES GIVEN DIVORCES

Two Framingham women were granted divorces today in Middlesex Probate Court on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Doris E. DeGanne, twenty-one, was granted a divorce nisi by Judge John C. Largent from Joseph J. DeGanne of Holliston. Through an agreement made before entering court she sought to alimony, custody of a minor child, Joseph E. DeGanne, was given to Agnes P. DeGanne of Holliston.

The wife's testimony, corroborated by a sister, Miss Evelyn DeGanne of Peabody street, Revere, told of innumerable beatings administered by her husband, who she said never gave her any money. The witness said she worked and her husband gambled. He finally ordered her out of the house.

Mrs. Alice B. Goodhue, 19, was granted a divorce nisi by Judge Arthur E. Deane from Joseph P. Goodhue of Arlington with whom she lived at Nahant, N. H., on May 20, 1927.

Mrs. Goodhue testified to cruel acts on the part of her husband, and told of finding the photo of another woman in the box of his watch. She was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Carlisle, and was given an allowance, the amount of which was not stated.

"SOONER SHE DIES, THE BETTER"

Cecil Westcott of the Revere auditor's office declared: "The sooner Ruth Snyder is executed the better off society will be. I am sure Governor Smith will not intervene to save her. She deserves her fate."

"DESERVES THE CHAIR"

Helen Barry of the Revere Public Works Department thinks it's time officials quit wasting time on criminals.

"SHE IS TERRIBLE"

Gertrude Loeffler, water registrar at Revere, said: "Ruth Snyder is a terrible woman. She should pay for her crime with her life."

U.S. GIRL TO WED EX-MAHARAJAH OF INDORE

London, Jan. 9 (A.P.)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay says that an American girl, Miss Mary Miller, arrived in Bombay for the purpose of marrying the former Maharajah of Indore, whom she met while she was visiting in America. The American consul is said to have failed in an attempt to dissuade Miss Miller from the marriage which is to occur at Indore, after which she will add the Hindu religion.

In November, 1925, when the former Maharajah was in Salt Lake City, Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash., and her mother were members of the former ruler's party. He was traveling incognito as "Mr. T. B. Bhat".

Recent reports from Bombay that the former Maharajah intended to marry an unnamed American girl brought him to the notice of Mrs. John Miller at Seattle, the statement that the match was a possibility, she disclaimed all knowledge of her daughter's plans.

The Maharajah of Indore gained notoriety in January, 1925, when Shantabai Begum, a dancing girl, was slung in the face and her secret, wealthy Bombay merchant, was killed by nine Indians, later identified as having connections with the Maharajah's train.

Mounting had been a former favorite of the Maharajah and it was declared that the Indians were seeking to avenge him.

MAY FREE HER SLAYER

Celia Gullivan, former Whitman girl, who was slain at Winsor, Vt., and Clarence Darrow, defender of Leopold and Loeb, who is trying to save John Winters, under sentence of death for the brutal murder of the girl, who was found on a couch heartily to death.

DARROW OPENS FIGHT TO SAVE WINTERS

Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, last evening began his fight to save John Winters, who on Thursday will argue before the Vermont State Supreme Court for the life of John Winters.

Winters is in the death cell at Winsor, Vt., under sentence to be executed for the slaying of Celia Gullivan in her Windsor cottage a year ago last November.

Darrow has been in Boston at the home of friends for a week, studying the briefs in the Winters case and preparing the argument for which he will keep a place, given twenty-four hours ago, for the Vermont court.

Young Darrow, then a student at Dartmouth College, was the driver of a horse that killed five-year-old Harold Cooley in a runaway accident. He promised the child's mother, Mrs. Arthur Cooley, that if ever his family was in a position to aid the Cooley family it stood always ready to do so.

Mrs. Cooley is John Winters' aunt and the men for whom Clarence Darrow will plead Thursday is the son of the child Darrow's son accidentally killed. Only a remainder from Mrs. Cooley was necessary to back the defender of Leopold and Loeb into the Vermont case.

Darrow was speaking regarding the possibility of saving Winters from hanging. "My review of the case has disclosed a lack of evidence enough to convict," he said.

The crime for which Winters will pay the penalty of death today is the murder of Miss Gullivan, a former companion of the late Antonine Machine Company, Inc., at Windsor.

On November 4, 1925, Miss Gullivan's body was found on a couch in her Windsor cottage. She had been beaten to death. Winters was arrested and his trial, two months later, was featured by the introduction of the head of the slain woman in court.

The worshipers just as the singing commenced. Kneeling standing for his knees at the altar of hymn and in a few moments the threat of serious injury, with possible loss of life, was averted. They saw green and altar lights extinguish in flames by tearing down the burning cloth and standing on it.

Had a panic ensued it would have been most serious for worshippers even filled the street outside the church, which is a temporary structure. Schools had been closed during the funeral hour.

Restoration of quiet was aided by seniors who pushed on the seats and begged for order. The eulogy had been pronounced by Rev. William Carey of St. Patrick's Church, Boston, when the fire broke out and he continued without interruption in spite of the commotion around him.

Five minutes, called by an alarm ring in to those outside the church, added to the confusion.

Walter Lambell, who was leading the 25 priests in the choir, is a chorister of the Goto, Heaven Church, South Boston.

St. Michael's was filled with participants from other cities and towns. Father Haley, who died Saturday, was pastor here for nine years. His body was taken to Newburyport, his burial place, for burial.

POMEROY GETS $1 FOR SLANDER OF HIS NAME

A verdict of $1 in favor of Joseph Pomroy, who has served 44 years of a life sentence at State Prison, was rendered today by a jury in Superior Court.

The case was brought by John Stone Blackwell, noted publisher and writer, accused of slandering a bitter enemy in his cell.

The verdict in favor of the now prisoner was rendered by Judge Harold D. Williams, who charged the jury that should damages be sufficient, although he told the jury it was for them to consider.

The jury was out an hour and twenty minutes. Pomroy had sued for $5,000, alleging that Miss 17-5 had libeled him in a column of a newspaper at the time he was applying to Governor Evans for a pardon.

Pomroy, who has served longer in prison than any other person in this country, was sentenced when only fifteen years old, after having killed two boys and a girl.

"I was based on evidence in this case that would warrant you in finding as a fact that Pomroy libeled a citizen alive," said Judge Williams to the jury. "Therefore, the defendant cannot be justified on the ground that her statement was true."

"The statement was a statement of a crime—worthy to be made," he said. "In the paper, also, the words 'it is reported' and that may be of importance to you in considering the question of damages."

"Charles Clark, editor of a late newspaper, and Mr. Barclay of Boston Public Library both testified they had heard this story for many years. If you find it was a common report or rumor, you may consider that with relation to the extent of damages. Such a story, if repeated for many years, may not damage the man as much as if made up out of whole cloth at the time of publication."

"One of the important questions is Pomroy's reputation at the time of publication of the article. He is entitled to money damages for injury to feelings and reputation. It is for you to say what he suffered by reason of this libel. A jury may return nominal damages of, say, $1 where the reputation of the man libeled was really not injured."

2 BOSTON FIREMEN WIN $8,850 CRASH DAMAGES
Verdicts of $1,000 for Capt. Dennis J. Bailey and $7,850 for Edward M. Gault, members of engine company 45 of the Boston fire department, for injuries received when their apparatus collided with a bus on Elevated car, were returned in Superior Court today. William H. Hennessey and James M. Graham were counsel for Bailey, and Edward P. Wallace and Frank Monahan for Gault. Stuart C. Rand appeared for the railway company.

EVANS PUT ON TRIAL FOR MURDER AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, Jan. 9 (A.P.)—Arthur Evans, alias Arthur E. Lepper, 18, who was indicted last week for the murder of a woman in New York City, where he is alleged to have made a confession to a prison warden, went on trial today in Superior Court on a charge of murdering Harold E. Hillman, cousin of Governor William D. Abbott.

Evans was serving a term in the State prison for another offense when he is alleged to have confessed to the Abbott murder.

Lion Hunters Brave 'Tis the Bunk! Is Cameraman's Cry

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.)—The hunted lion of the lion hunter is "the bunk!" said the cameraman of the lion hunter, who arrived today after a film expedition into Africa where he photographed hundreds of wild animals.

"Lion animals are more anxious to escape than to attack," he said. "I could not see a lion with a camera. I could see a lion with a rifle."

He said that a cameraman should have a camera, a lion should have a rifle, and a lion should have a cameraman.

The Most Remarkable Personal Story of the Year, by a Real Hero

Sweden, January 29, 1890, the son of Ole and Louisa Mansson. His father (who changed his name to Lindbergh after reaching America) was a member of the Swedish Parliament and had at one time been secretary to the king.

About 1890 my grandfather with his family embarked on a ship bound for America and settled near Sauk Centre, Minn., where he took up a homestead and built his first home in America—a log cabin. It was here that my father spent his early life.

The Rev. C. S. Harrison, writing for the Minnesota Historical Society, gives an account of the activities of my grandfather during the early days in Minnesota.

There were very few schools in Minnesota at that time, and my father's boyhood days were spent mostly in hunting and fishing. His education consisted largely of home study, with an occasional short term at country schools.

He was educated at Grove Lake Academy, Minnesota, and graduated from the law school at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, with an LL. B. degree.

He began his law practice in Little Falls, where he served as county attorney. He later became interested in politics, and was elected to the Sixth Congress in 1906 to represent the Sixth District of Minnesota at Washington, a capacity in which he served for ten years.

My mother was born in Detroit, Mich., daughter of Charles and Frazzeline Lund. She is of English, Irish and French extraction. As a graduate of the University of Michigan, she holds a B. S. degree from that institution, also an A. M. degree from Columbia University, New York City. Her father, Dr. Charles H. Lund, a Detroit dentist, was born in Simcoe, Norfolk County, Canada, and his father, Colonel John Scott Lund, came from England, and was one of the founders of the present city of Hamilton.

My grandfather was constantly experimenting in his laboratory. He held a number of patents on vacuum distillation apparatus, in addition to several on gold and silver plating and other electrical processes. He was one of the first to foresee the possibilities of porcelain in dentistry, and after becoming known as "the father of porcelain dental art."

During the first four years of my life I lived in my Minnesota home with the exception of a few trips to school. Then my father was elected to Congress and thereafter I seldom spent more than a few months in any one place. My winters were passed in Washington, and my summers in Minnesota, with occasional visits to Detroit.

When I was eight years of age I entered the Force School in Washington. My schooling was very irregular due to our constant moving from place to place. Up to the time I entered the University of Wisconsin I had never attended for one full school year, and I received instruction from over a dozen institutions, both public and private, from Washington to California.

Through these years I crossed and recrossed the United States, made one trip to Panama, and had three developed a desire for travel, which has never been over since.

My chief interest in school lay along mechanical and scientific lines. Consequently, after graduation from the Little Falls High School, I decided to take a course in mechanical engineering, and two years later entered the College of Engineering of the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

While I was attending the university I became intensely interested in aviation. Since I saw my first airplane, I have been fascinated by it.

UNIDENTIFIED GIRL DIES OF POISON

LINDY AS BOSTON SAW HIM

Colonel Lindbergh and Mayor Nichols, photographed on the occasion of the flying marvel's visit to this city.

LINDY LANDS AT PANAMA CITY IN SHOWER

Panama, Jan. 9 (A.P.)—A fire fight from San Jose, Costa Rica, to Panama City today carried Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to the end of his Central American tour. He took the air at the flying field at San Jose at 5:45 today, and landed safely at Camp Lindbergh on Panama soil at 1:45 this afternoon.

As the famous aviator came over the landing place there was a tropical shower and a stiff wind was blowing.

A great crowd had gathered at the flying field, including many Americans who had come from the Canal Zone, and Lindbergh had his usual enthusiastic reception.

Chief in greeting him said: "Colonel Lindbergh, where have you secured the liberty of America. You, with your ability of shortening distance, are establishing a bond of fraternity and are bringing together all the American countries on a basis of real understanding."

Just as President Child drove on the field with his wife and one of his daughters, followed by Colonel Harry Rogers, acting governor of the canal zone, part of the grandstand collapsed.

There were no casualties. The crowd was a fine one, hurriedly put up for the occasion.

VETERAN SPECIAL POLICE OFFICER FALLS DEAD

Identify of the man who dropped dead suddenly in the Bayview street subway station was today established as Paul Garity, 47, a veteran special police officer, of No. 28 Elm street, Roxbury.

When he failed to return home this morning, his wife called the city police station and finally the Northern Burial.

For years, Garity acted as special police officer at the city hall Theatre and continued in that capacity when the Gaiety was built on the site.

'I WANT TO DIE!' POISON GIRL DECLARES

Meaning to two passages: "I don't want to die," she was dressed and pretty and about 20 years old, talked to the grand jury at Kingston and Boston streets, early today.

Law E. Dames, of No. 71 Temple street, Lynn, and Frank L. Butler, of No. 25 Massachusetts avenue, commanded a passing auto and took her to the Hospital for the Insane, on the way they called Patrolman Lof of Station 2 who joined the group.

At the hospital the woman was pronounced dead. The body was removed to Northern Mortuary where Medical Examiner George Burrows made an examination of her.

An examination of her effects disclosed nothing but a small bottle of fly line. She was found to have no money on her person.

While a superficial inquiry revealed that she was of apparent normal mind in modern style and seemingly intelligent, the type or quantity of poison swallowed by her was not indicated.

She was described as being about 20 years of age, weight 120 pounds, medium complexion, dark brown hair, and eyes a deep blue. She was dressed in a blue dress with a white collar and white cuffs.

Among theories advanced by police was that she had been a stranger in the city arriving late at night at the South end ferry house, where she was found.

She had been wandering about the business section of the city in the afternoon.

She was described as being about 20 years of age, weight 120 pounds, medium complexion, dark brown hair, and eyes a deep blue.

Round the Links With BOBBY JONES

By ROBT. T. JONES, Jr.
National Amateur, British Open and Southern Open Champion
I HAVE just finished a game over a very interesting little pamphlet. It is entitled, "The Mechanism of the Golf Swing" and its author is Mr. Frank H. Floyd of Detroit. Mr. Floyd writes that he took up golf at the age of fifty-eight, and I think now what a pity he did not begin sooner! He is a remarkably keen observer of the golfing stroke.

I was particularly struck by Mr. Floyd's comment on the manner in which the hands and forearms of the golfer at Oakmont brought into play. He says that the hands and forearms are the "engine" of the golf swing. He says that the hands and forearms are the "engine" of the golf swing. DEBATE DRAFT
LAWS TODAY

Chicago, Jan. 8. (AP)—A few blocks down the street from where the National League and American League clubs are holding their annual meeting, a group of men were gathered today to discuss the draft laws. The group, which included several players and managers, was led by a man who was known to be a strong supporter of the draft laws. The group was seen to be in a heated discussion, with some members of the group appearing to be in a state of agitation.

Gene Gives One Reason
Why Maloney Left Ring

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

NO doubt the average boxing fan has been somewhat surprised at the rapid descent of Jimmy Maloney from the heights of titular contenship to the lowly rank of an outsider. For all anyone knew, he might have been on his way to the heavyweight championship as late as last June. Today, he doesn't rank in the first ten and it seems to be only a question of time until he will disappear from the sport altogether.

Maloney's decline in form dated from a loss to a former world champion, Jack Dempsey, in the fall of 1926. Since that time, he has lost to several other top fighters, and his record has been a steady decline. The reason for this, according to Gene Tunney, is that Maloney has been too confident of his own abilities. He has not been able to adapt to the changes in the sport, and he has not been able to keep up with the top fighters.

A political cartoon by David Coverly. It depicts three men in suits shaking hands. Above each man's head is a sign with a name. The man on the left has a sign that says 'LIBERAL'. The man in the center has a sign that says 'HENRY L. SIMMONS'. The man on the right has a sign that says 'CONSERVATIVE'. The cartoon is signed 'Coverly' in the bottom right corner.

Lloyd George, convinced that war or disarmament must come, says that setting the good example of disarmament means some risk. But if France won't take the risk, then "BRITAIN MUST."

WHY must Britain? Two big countries at least, the British Empire and the United States, don't want war. The United States has never wanted it. Britain having everything she wants at present, except more trade, is only anxious to develop and keep her empire with as little risk as possible.

Instead of talking nonsense about disarmament, why should not Great Britain and the United States develop a power in the air, on the water, and under the water big enough to take care of any nation or any combinations of nations that might menace the peace of Britain or the United States? That would be simpler than foolish disarmament, and wiser and safer.
